

TO the Nuclear Recycle Fuel Royal Commission,

The most important item is the surface water and underground water to be looked after, made sure there is no contamination from waste of any description, for all the generations who will be looking after this country for many, many thousands of years to come.

People should not put money ahead of the lives of those who live in this country, for the generations to come.

Would it not be a good idea to have a Federal Referendum on the storage of any waste? In no way should the places mentioned in The Advertiser be used as burial sites.

In the future of a leak of any contamination items, the above places on the Eyre Peninsula are far too close to civilisation for the good of this great country.

Humphrey Hunt.
